THE ONWARD MARCH.

We had the satisfaction of receiving and presenting to our patrons yesterday the most important and glorious news, everything considered, which among all "our victories" we have as yet chronicled.

Norfolk which for a year has seemed to be the very Sebastopol of the rebellion, has fallen! the Merrimack, the marplot of the last two months and the bete noire, not only of our own government but of half the civilized world, has laid her bones not far from those of the Congress and Cumberland, while on the Mississippi the gallant Davis, so well known here for many a noble quality, has foiled the desperate attempt of the enemy to regain the mastery of that river. Meanwhile our army under McClellan is pushing on until it is now within one day's march of Richmond; and even before these lines meet the eye of the reader, the last conflict may have been successfully fought, which is to carry the army of the Potomac in triumph to the rebel capital. At every point the blows fall thick and fast,—blows from which there is no recovery, and which leave no hope. There is no second Norfolk to fall back upon, no reserved Merrimack to turn to the tide again. The work now done is final and effectual; it strikes at the centre of the rebellion, and deprives it of the chief of those resources which have given it its formidable character.

It is a remarkable characteristic of the "events which have taken place in Virginia, that they have been accomplished with but slight loss of life. They are the result of months of careful preparation. The seed of this harvest was planted indeed thirteen months ago, when the veteran then at the head of our armies, in those days when all others were absorbed in their fears for the Union, deliberately sent the Third and Fourth regiments of Massachusetts to save Fortress Monroe, leaving Washington to wait, as a secondary matter, for such other assistance as might be afforded. This preparation, begun so early, has been carried on with new vigor and with consummate skill by the young general, who organized our armies and is now leading them to victory,—and by the very grandeur of its scale has insured three successes. Norfolk has fallen, not by hard fighting, but because the most desperate rebel might see that its fall was a foregone conclusion. The Merrimack has been destroyed by her builders, because her escape from destruction was found to be impossible. And thus at this moment the whole of Virginia appears to be passing into the hands of the government again, because the avalanche now descending in too mighty for any to dream of stopping it. What more effective tribute than this could be paid to the power which the people of the United States have put forth, to save their Union and Constitution from destruction.

The Conservative Caucus.
A caucus of the conservative members of Congress was held in Washington on Saturday afternoon. About 50 Congressmen were present, representing all parties, and sections. The object of the meeting was stated by Mr. Mallory of Ky., who wrote the call. It was, he said, to unite all the conservative men to put down abolitionism and secessionism and save the country. There was, he said, danger that the abolitionists would carry out their destructive measures, and conservative men must unite to prevent this.

Mr. motion of Mr. Sheffield of R. I., the Hon. J. Crittenden of Ky. was made chairman of the meeting. Mr. Crittenden made a patriotic speech, disclaiming any partisan feelings. He only desired to unite against the dominant ultraism of Congress. He wished to spend the remainder of his life, not in party strife, but in endeavoring to save the Republic.

Mr. Craven of Ind. moved that Mr. Cox of Ohio be made a Secretary. The motion was carried.

After considerable discussion by Messrs. Richardson, Sheffield, Kellogg of Ill., Craven, Wickliffe, Holman, Manties, Cox and others, all of whom united in the desire to destroy the power of the "destructive" in Congress, a committee was appointed to report to the adjourned meeting on Tuesday evening next at 8 o'clock, consisting of the following: Mr. Crittenden of Ky., chairman, Messrs. Steele of Ky.,

Johnson of Pa., Sheffield of R. I., Ward of N. Y., Crittenden of Md., Brown of Va., Allen of O., Craven of Ind., Richardson of Ill., Noll of Mo., Fisher of Del., and Maynard of Tenn. Subsequently Messrs. Kellogg of Ill. and Wickliffe of Ky. were added to the committee.

Mr. Richardson and others disclaimed any party movement. He said he had signed the address because the conservative men had been too long together. He wanted all good men to unite together to save the country from the abolitionists now impending over it. Mr. Manties thought this movement would result in a party move. Mr. Craven and others disclaimed anything of the kind. Others considered that they ought to take measures for uniting to defeat the Lovejoy bill on Monday, as there was danger of its passage. Mr. Kellogg said the majority were trying to make the bill palatable. He thought it ought to be laid on the table. Mr. Cox remarked that that motion had been made and that it failed.

There was great harmony and earnestness in this movement. Senators of Missouri, Delaware and Kentucky were present, and nearly all the democrats in the city in Congress. All the border State Congressmen and several republican members of Congress of conservative kind were also present.—Exchange.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS.

RUN AWAY.—Yesterday about noon, as Mrs. Dr. Balch with her children were riding through Key Street in a French Phaeton, when near the Java, burial ground the horse started suddenly and becoming unmanageable, ran furiously until the carriage came in contact with a fence, and it being overturned threw Mrs. Balch and her children out with considerable violence. Fortunately Mrs. Balch escaped with very slight injury, although much frightened. The children were somewhat injured, and they were all taken into a neighboring residence and Dr. King was in attendance. Mr. Robert James seized the horse and succeeded in holding him, thereby preventing more serious consequences.

THE COMPLIMENTARY BALL.—This Ball which occurs on Thursday evening next, complimentary to Mr. C. A. White, a very successful Terpinchroan teacher for some time past in our city, promises to be a novel and successful affair. It is to be a Cotton Ball, and being an experiment untried in our community, will, we doubt not, in connection with the high estimation in which Mr. White is held, insure a full attendance. Tickets are now ready and may be obtained at T. J. Weaver's. Those who have subscribed, (and those who have not,) are requested to call and get tickets. No money will be taken at the door.

JEFF'S BRANDY.—We are indebted to Fritz Master Lawton Coggeshall, for the present of a bottle of brandy of rare quality being one of a dozen found on board the Ella Warley, and sent to the address of Ella Coggeshall, daughter of J. H. Coggeshall, President of the Southern Confederacy, by the English residents of Nassau, N. B. But it did not reach its destination, and instead of "making glad the trembling heart of God forsaken old Jeff," it was quaffed by Union men, in honor of the recent Federal triumph over Jeff's myrmidons.

A NEW PROCESS FOR COLORING PHOTOGRAPHS.—Mr. J. H. Nason, of New Bedford, has discovered a process by which photographs are colored, without the necessity of removing the albumen from the paper, or applying any wash before coloring. The process is simple, and the specimens of photographs colored by it which we have seen, are very beautiful. A patent has already been applied for, and a right to use the process has been obtained by J. Appleby Williams, of this city, at whose rooms specimens can be seen, and who can give an intelligent opinion of its value. The expense is but trifling, so that what has long been a desideratum, a truthfully colored photograph, can be obtained at small cost.

CORRECTION.—We are satisfied that in our article of yesterday, in regard to the ringing of the bells, that we were in error, and therefore take the first opportunity to make the amende honorable. The bell on the City Hall was struck immediately after the alarm was raised and rung for some minutes, by Sergeant Ward, whose duty it was to attend to it. We do not intend knowingly to do injustice to any one, particularly to our worthy City Sergeant.

WHITE FISH.—A quantity of these fish, the first taken this season, were caught on Sachuest beach yesterday, and offered for sale in Telf's market, on Banister's wharf. Those who object to eating fish on account of the bones, can now enjoy a piscatorial repast with perfect safety, as this species of fish are perfectly free from the objectionable feature.

Court of Justices.

FRIDAY.

State vs Patrick Dunn for larceny of a key from a market on Banister's Wharf. Found guilty and sentenced to the Penitentiary county jail for one month. Patrick demurred at the sentence and said he was in hopes they would have given him six months.

PERSONAL.—Commodore Stirling and Capt. Radford are in town, stopping at the Aqueduct House. It will be remembered that Capt. Radford was in command of the Cumberland at the time she was run down by the Merrimack.

—Ackerman is said to be preparing at the feet of the government. Four rebel troops are in the State, and secessionists are coming forward and taking the oath of allegiance, saying that the Southern confederacy is dead.

WAR NEWS.

THE EXPLOSION OF THE MERRIMACK.

FULL ACCOUNT.

Fortress Monroe, May 11.—At 4 o'clock this morning a bright light was observed in the direction of Craney Island. At precisely half-past four o'clock an explosion took place that made the earth and water tremble for miles. In the midst of bright flames which shot up in the distance, the timbers and iron of the monster Merrimack could be seen flying through the air.

No doubt is entertained that the veritable Merrimack has ceased to exist. On receiving this report Com. Goldsborough ordered two gunboats to proceed to Craney Island and ascertain the truth. The gunboats were followed by a squadron of men-of-war. It was a most beautiful sight and attracted through of spectators along the whole line of Old Point. Some were disposed to discredit the announcement that the Merrimack had been destroyed, and as the vessels passed up to Craney Island the excitement became intense. In the meantime two tug boats were seen coming on toward the Fort at full speed, each apparently endeavoring to outstrip the other, and when nearing the wharf the radiant countenance of Capt. Case of the Minnesota gave assurance that the news they brought was of a most gratifying character.

The report was true. He had met parts of the floating wreck. All the earth works at Craney Island appeared to be abandoned, though the rebel flag was still flying. Lieut. S. F. Eldridge, from the Dragon, had landed with an armed crew and taken down the rebel flag, substituting the Stars and Stripes amid the hearty cheering of the crew. Capt. Case immediately reported the fact to the President and Secretary of War, who received the information of the picket boats with great satisfaction. At the request of the President, Capt. Case immediately proceeded to Craney Island to ascertain if the works were evacuated in company with the fleet, which was advancing.

As we neared Craney Island we found this immense fortress apparently abandoned, though three rebel flags were floating from a very tall staff in different parts of the works. Capt. Case, when within half a mile of the shore, ordered a shot to be fired to test the fact of evacuation; the only signs of life produced was the appearance on shore of two negro men. A boat was immediately lowered and through the courteous attention of the commandant I accompanied it to the shore to participate in honor of lowering the rebel emblem and substituting the pride of America in its place.

After spending an hour on the island, we proceeded to Norfolk. Immediately at the upper end of the island we found a mass of blackened wreck floating on the water, some of it proceeding from the sunken portions of the vessels. We had also passed large quantities of floating timber on our way up, all of which had been torn into splinters.

On the line of the river leading from Craney Island to Norfolk there are not less than six heavy earth works, mounting in all about 60 cannon, all of which are still in position except those near the Naval Hospital. These are said to have been taken to Richmond during the past week. On the opposite bank of the river is another battery with two or three other small works. On all the works the rebel flag has been lowered by the fleet and the stars and stripes substituted.

It being Sunday, of course all the places of business were closed, and the city presented a most quiet aspect. The wharves were crowded with black, male and female, and a goodly number of white working people with their wives and children were strolling about. The secessionists talk boldly of the Southern Confederacy, declaring their intention to receive nothing but Confederate money, and saying they would have nothing to do with Lincoln's shipbuilders. They were fully confident that in 20 days Norfolk would be repossessed and the Yankees driven out.

DEPARTURE OF JUDGE MCALLISTER.—Among the passengers by the steamer this morning is Judge McAllister, of the U. S. Circuit Court, who proposes to take a six months' travel for his health. Judge McAllister is not an aged man, being but sixty-two years old, and his physicians promise him renewed health upon a cessation from court duties, and rest for a few months. We trust that their valuations may prove correct. Our Circuit Judge has always demeaned himself with dignity and honor, and by few of his decisions has ever been reversed by the Supreme tribunal. Judge McAllister and his sons of whom he has several amongst us, though from the South are good Union men. Capt. McAllister, of the Ordnance Department, is one of the few Georgians of the regular army who has remained loyal, while we understand, a large estate of the wife of another son has been confiscated by reason of fidelity to the Federal cause.

We clip the above item from the "Alta California" of San Francisco, and would add to the well deserved commendations contained in the above notice, that we cordially respond to every word, and would hope that, as one of the sons of Judge McAllister.—Mr. Ward McAllister—has been a resident among us for several seasons past; and has recently purchased land in our vicinity, the venerable and revered Judge may favor us with his presence, and enjoy the relieving assistance of our all-potent clippers and invigorating ocean air.

—Lieut. Worden has been ordered to the command of the new iron clad frigate Albatross. She was probably launched on Saturday at Philadelphia, and was christened by the late Commodore Charles Stewart, who formerly commanded the old Ironclad.

GENERAL SUMMARY.

—Three regiments, including Billy Wilson's have left Fort Pickens to reinforce Gen. Butler at New Orleans.

—The President very evidently does not think much of the censorship of the telegraph, as is shown by the publication of Commander Goldsborough's report.

—A newspaper in Plymouth having received a gold dollar in connection with a marriage notice, inserts the names of the parties in capitals—a capital distinction.

—A wit says that the successes of our navy on the Southern coast will soon enable the President to be hospitable enough to open a little port almost every day after dinner.—N. Y. Post.

—The news from all parts of Maryland speaks of the most promising crops of wheat and rye, and of abundance of fruit. Corn-planting has been kept back by the continuous wet weather; but the grass crops are gainers.

—Lawyers in New York complain that there never before has been a time when their business in that city was so dull.—They say that there are not now fifty out of the three thousand lawyers in the city who are more than making a living.

—Major Scott of the Post Office Department, leaves New York today. He will re-organize the Post Office there, where, we believe the old Post master remained true.

—A terrible fire occurred at Troy, N. Y. on Saturday, destroying property of the estimated value of $3,000,000. The bridge over the Hudson river was destroyed, and it is reported that a number of lives were lost.

—Reports from Fort Wright report that the land forces of the rebels have been withdrawn, leaving barely enough men to work the guns. It is the general opinion that the fort will be soon evacuated.

—Governor Johnson of Tennessee has issued a proclamation to the effect that, for every Union man captured or ill-treated by the rebel bands of marauders, five prominent rebels shall be made to suffer, and that ample retribution shall be made to all loyalists who may be depolled of their property out of the property of such parties as have given aid and comfort to the enemy.

—A despatch from Indianapolis, May 11, says:

A special train last night with Gov. Morton, Gen. Noble and Prof. Fletcher on board, and freighted with surgeons and sanitary stores for Pittsburg Landing, collided with a freight car on the track at Sullivan. Prof. Fletcher was instantly killed. None of the others were injured.

—There is a prospect that two regiments of loyal North Carolinians will speedily be in the field. General Burnside's judicious course has encouraged these practical demonstrations of loyalty, and the result is that North Carolina begins to make some effort to take care of herself. A powerful counter revolution against secession may be looked for in that State.

—Advices from Fredericksburg state that two men of the 13th New York, who had stayed a short distance from their regiment, were found on the 6th inst., one of them hanging by his heels from a tree with his throat cut, the other was lying on the ground with his throat cut from ear to ear. These things are done frequently, and our forces are greatly exasperated, and retaliation is becoming the watchword.

This Government does not look with equanimity upon the threatened war upon Mexico by France, and should the war soon end, it is not improbable that an explanation will be demanded of Louis Napoleon in reference to his purposes in Mexico. We have reason to believe that the State Department has not overlooked the matter, and it is perhaps at this very time the subject of a diplomatic correspondence between the two Governments. It has been suggested that Louis Napoleon favors the escape of the rebel army into Mexico, but this is now impossible, since the fall of New Orleans.—Washington Republican.

NEW USE FOR COTTON.—In order to cross one of the creeks in his line of march, Gen. Mitchell built a bridge three hundred feet long, of cotton bales. The bridge was built in the following manner:

Two cotton bales were first placed end to end, and then firmly and securely bound together by running rails under the ropes, which, difficult as it may first appear in a tightly packed bale, was found entirely practicable. Two others were bound in the same way and placed ten feet distant, in the stream, being bound by ropes to the old bridge and to the trees. Boards were then placed from bale to bale. In this manner sixty-six bales were placed, affording a pontoon bridge of strength sufficient to bear any weight likely to be placed upon it. The bales looked not unlike the pontoon bridge boats in general use, and but for its serpentine course, the bridge would have had the usual appearance of a pontoon bridge.

CONTRABANDS.—A letter from McCall's division says: "Contrabands are coming to the army in floods. A bright, intelligent little fellow of twelve years, came into camp and presented himself to Major —, saying that he had come from Fredericksburg; his master was a captain in the rebel army; when the army moved southward, he declined to go with them, and ran away northward. The little fellow said that his master had told him that the 'Yanks' would kill him, and all the negroes they could catch, and that was their only object.—But said he, 'I did die, and rather than go with them, I'd 'scape myself, and so I started North, and I'm here ready to work or fight.' Another letter from Banks army, says: "Contrabands are our great resources.—They can always be relied on as truthful, and willingly give any information they have, while their shrewdness and careful observation often finds out matters of great importance."

THE VANDERBILT VS. THE MERRIMACK.—The significant movements of our fleet in Hampton Roads on Thursday, together with what has been published heretofore, remove entirely the necessity for conjecturing the fact that it was designed that the Merrimack should run down the Vanderbilt in case the latter could be disposed of in no other way. The following calculation will show with what force the former would strike the Merrimack if moving at her average speed. The dead weight of the Vanderbilt is, in round numbers, 4000 tons, and her average speed is at least 10 miles an hour. That is equal to 40,000 tons moving at the rate of one mile an hour, which, in turn, is equivalent to 300 moving at the rate of 200 miles an hour. The Armstrong gun, one of the heaviest in use, carries a 100 pound ball. Three hundred tons is equal to six thousand pounds. In other words, the Vanderbilt would strike a vessel like the Merrimack with a force of six thousand 100 pound balls from an Armstrong gun, at the same instant and in the same spot. A further calculation shows that the momentum of the Vanderbilt would be equal to 1200 balls from the Union gun on the Rip Rap, each one of which weighs 500 pounds.—Post.

Fighting in Fremont's Department.—Gen. Milroy, on Friday, was confronted at McDowell by forces said to be those of Jackson, Johnson and Ewell. Before a general engagement was brought on, Gen. Schenck joined him after a forced march of 34 miles, when the rebels advanced from three points, and attempted to plant a battery where it would command our troops. This was prevented after a sharp battle in which our loss was six killed and seventy-five wounded. Our forces then fell back to Franklin.

A despatch from Gen. Kelley reports that Major Tremble, having been reinforced by three companies of Col. Harris's 10th Virginia and one company, Capt. West, of the 1st Virginia cavalry, has whipped the rebels at Spencer, killing a large number. And expects to kill or capture the whole of them.

Gen. Cox has driven the enemy from Greenbrier, Mercer and Giles counties after three sharp engagements.

Parson Brownlow has accepted an invitation of the Young Men's Republican Association of the New York City to address that organization. The following paragraph is from his letter of acceptance:—

I regard your letter, as a very high compliment, and I enter into it spiritfully, of sinking 'all party views' in the gratitudes of sustaining this government, at whatever cost of blood and treasure may be required. Nay, I say more, Southern man as I am, if the South in her madness and folly, will force the issue upon the country of slavery and no Union, or a Union and no slavery, I am for the Union, though every other institution of the country perish I am for sustaining this Union, if it shall require 'correction' or 'subjugation,' or what is worse, the annihilation of the rebel population of the land.
